NEW AIR LINK WITH HONG KONG

LIGHTER PLANES PROPOSED

It is learned from an authoritative source that a regular air mail service between Manila and San Francisco, via Guam, Midway Island, Wake Island and Honolulu will be commenced shortly, linking Hong Kong.

The service will be operated by Pan American Airways and it is intended to connect one service with Imperial Airways, another with the Chinese National Aviation Corporation and a third with South West Aviation Corporation from Canton to Hanoi.

It is understood that lighter planes will be used for the Hong Kong-Manila section of the service, but load capacity machines will be used on the longer distances covering about 2,400 miles.

MALNUTRITION AMONG POORER CHINESE CLASS

Many Suffering From Beri-Beri

SOCIETY'S REPORT FOR AUGUST

Inspectors of the Society for the Protection of Children, in their latest reports, state that malnutrition is on the increase amongst mothers of the poorer Chinese classes, many of whom have been found to be suffering from beri-beri. Reference to this fact was made at the monthly meeting of the Executive Committee of the Society, held on Monday evening, over which the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall presided.

It was stated that the incidence of beri-beri was largely due to mothers living chiefly on rice, which was the only diet they could afford. In cases dealt with by the Society, soup is being supplied, this containing essentials lacking in a rice diet.

The case report for August showed that during the month 133 new cases had been dealt with, involving 335 children, and at the end of the month there were 953

New Stamps For Colonies

DESIGN DESCRIBED

EFFIGY OF THE KING

Arrangements are now being made for new issues, at or about the date of the Coronation next year, of Colonial stamps bearing the effigy of his Majesty. The new issues will be confined at first to a few denominations for each territory and will be based on a common design. These stamps will form part of new permanent issues and will not be special Coronation issues. No such special Coronation issues for the Colonies are at present in contemplation.

The stamp will be of standard size. The design comprises a three-quarter profile vignette of the King's head in a circle, placed towards the top left-hand corner of the stamp, with the Imperial Crown in the top right-hand corner. The name of the Territory is shown at the bottom right-hand corner, and the denomination appears in words at the base of the stamp.

The above arrangements will apply to Aden, the Bahamas, Bermuda, British Guiana, British Honduras, the British Solomon Islands Protectorate, Ceylon, Cyprus, the Falkland Islands, Fiji, the Gambia, Gibraltar, the Gilbert and Ellice Islands, the Gold Coast, Hong Kong, Jamaica and dependencies, Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika Territory, the Leeward Islands, Malta, Mauritius, Nigeria, Northern Rhodesia, Nyasaland, St. Helena, Seychelles, Sierra Leone, Somaliland Protectorate, the Straits Settlements, Trinidad, and the Windward Islands.

The stamps will be printed by the recess process, except in the case of the Gold Coast, which will continue to use the photogravure process adopted in 1928, and except possibly in the case of Aden.

MILE-A-MINUTE LUXURY TRAVEL

SUCCESSFUL TRIALS OF "TAIPO BELLE"

LOUNGE CHAIRS AND COCKTAIL BAR

(BY OUR SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVE).

"If you stand about here you'll get a good idea of what a streamlined luxury parlour car looks like coming down the rail track."

That was said to me yesterday by an official of the Kowloon-Canton Railway organisation with, I hope, the best of intentions.

Well, this is what happened. I got as close to the rail track as I deemed prudent, about a mile distant from the Kowloon station. I heard a singing sound creeping along the shimmering lines, getting deeper and deeper.

Then, like a silver bullet, something streaked with blue just hurtled through space.

"That's the 'Taipo Belle'!" casually remarked the official.

"That was," I commented with assumed casualness.

"The Taipo Belle" photographed on the track yesterday.

A few minutes later I was chatting with the General Manager of the Kowloon-Canton Railway, Mr. R. D. Walker, and the Chief Mechanical Engineer, Mr. J. Smith, A.M.I.E., in the parlour section of this luxury rail coach.

"We came from Shum Chun in 28 minutes 58 seconds," declared Mr. Walker, as though he had just ridden the Derby winner.

"Good gracious!" I exclaimed, somewhat incredulously. "I didn't think it would have taken you as long as that!"

To which the General Manager and the Chief Mechanical Engineer both said and looked something that was pithy but unprintable.

"I thought this 'Taipo Belle' had wings," I diplomatically added.

And so I did.

SLEEK AND SLICK

Without doubt this latest product of the Hong Kong workshops of this railway organisation is one of the sleekest and slickest examples of mechanica. Elegance that I have ever seen. And her inside is as pretty as her outside. Silver and blue outside, and streamlined to the last degree of fashionable-ness; blue, silver, gold, white and softly blended grey-brown inside—the "Taipo Belle" is all that could be desired in luxury transport.

I sat in chairs that had taken several months to design. Chairs that were as comfortable sitting-up as lying back, and, if you feel that way, you can have the backs adjusted so that each chair became a sleep-inducing couch.

NO EPIDEMIC OF TYPHOID

Slight Increase Admitted

"No Cause For Alarm"—Official

"There is not the slightest justification to describe it as an epidemic," said a Government official in answer to a query by a "Daily Press" representative yesterday, regarding the prevalence of typhoid in Health returns submitted by the authorities for daily publication.

The cause of typhoid in the Colony was mainly due to the bad hygienic conditions in which food was prepared and stored, stated our informant, and this state of affairs mainly applied to the poorer classes in Hong Kong.

WHAT FIGURES SHOW

"Is there any increase in the number of cases reported?" asked our representative.

Official figures in this respect were as follows: There were 233 cases reported last year up to and including August, relating to all forms of typhoid, while the figures for this year were stated to be 260—an increase of 12 per cent approximately.

These figures were by no means a cause for alarm, as typhoid was

JAPANESE ECONOMIC INFLUENCE

WANING IN SOUTH CHINA

STRIKING STATISTICS

Declaring that Britain and France are taking advantage of the anti-Japanese movement to consolidate their positions in China, and that this means a corresponding decline in Japanese economic influence, the Shanghai "Nippo" has published an article devoted to an outline study of the Japanese economic positions in South China, showing how these have become weakened in recent years.

The article makes no reference to Fukien province, however, where Japanese influence has been steadily growing through the infiltration of Formosans.

STAGE STRUCK

"JACK" PANTOMIME

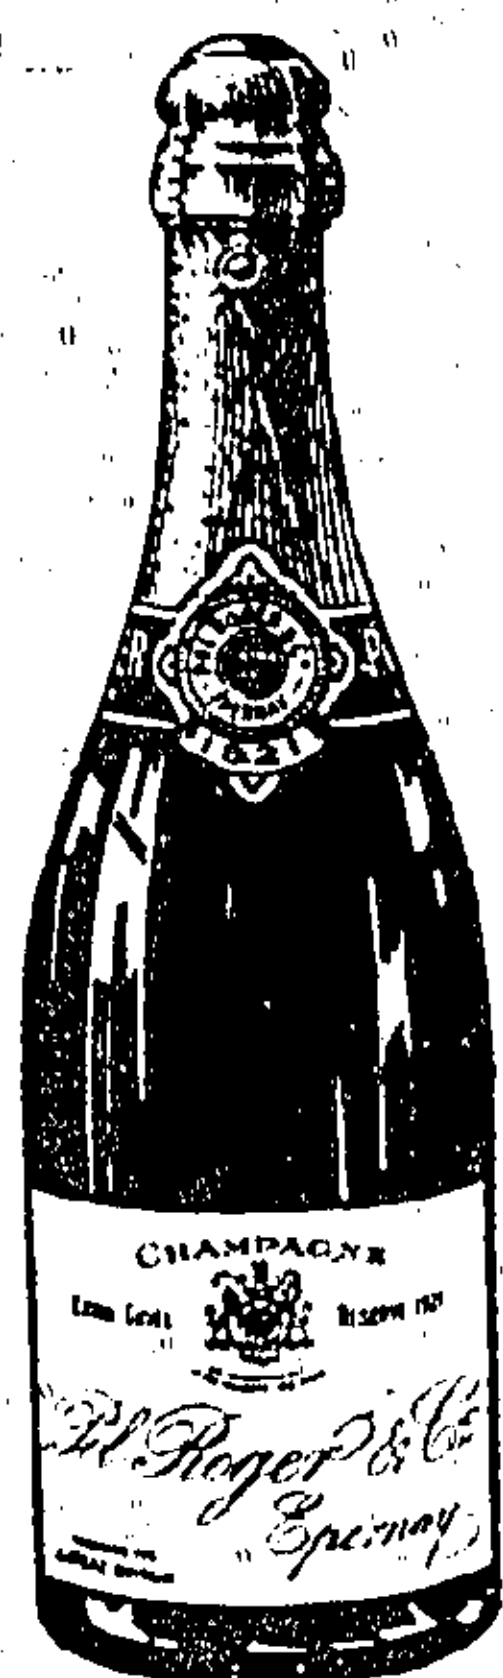

Those responsible for the production of the Christmas Pantomime at the "Y" are being bombarded with requests from parents whose children are anxious to shine before the footlights. The juvenile chorus and leads have not yet been settled, however, so there is still time for every young hopeful to put his best foot forward.

The production of the Pantomime is becoming each year an increasingly onerous business, but in view of the great success of last year's venture with Dick Whittington, the committee who will introduce Jack to his beanstalk, are making unprecedented efforts to give the public what it wants, and judging from its support of last Christmas, what it truly deserves.

The rehearsals will commence on Wednesday, October 7, and the dates for production December 22, 23, 24 and 25.

LONDON'S NEW UNIVERSITY

Holden's Subtle Skill
STONE WITH NEW TEXTURE

Recently the new buildings of the London University in Bloomsbury began to be occupied. In thirty years from now they will probably be finished. Ten acres of buildings of a monumental character intended to last for three or four hundred years—an assembly of Portland stone, bigger than St. Paul's—is architecture on a scale greater than anything of the kind yet undertaken in this country. Its walls are built stone on stone without iron. Construction is a grey granite base, the rest of Portland stone.

As one walks round the Senate House, already completed to the roof, which can now be seen from Tottenham Court Road, and, if so privileged, walks through its great halls and stairways and lecture-rooms, one seems to have a foretaste of posterity. Here the brains of London for generations to come will be refined and quickened and gain direction.

At first sight the innocent observer who sees nothing of Corbusier or Mendelssohn in its facade would probably say that it is not original. The more experienced after their scrutiny may think that it is the most subtly original building in London. For instance, its surface is different from that of any other building. Mr. Charles Holden, who has studied Portland stone intelligently through his many buildings and pondered over the vagaries of its weathering, has thought out a way of conducting the rain with its impurities down the face of the edifice so that there will be no local stains and streaks. The stone is mason-ruled; with tiny perpendicular channels, nine to the inch, down the whole building, conducting the rain from top to base. These toolmarks also affect the refraction of the light differently from flat stone, so that the appearance of these vast masses of masonry will be softer and more radiant than that of the stone of other buildings. The life of the stone will be lengthened and a saving effected, but the aesthetic result will also be important, and what Mr. Holden is doing to-day all London architects of important buildings in Portland stone will probably be doing tomorrow.

SYNOCPATED WINDOWS

Another example of architectural subtlety can be seen in the range of windows on the west side of the first block. In one section there are six tall windows on the principal floor and seven windows above them. Pressed on the subject said that he wished to change the vertical look the regular rows of windows gave to the building there, and by fitting the seven windows on the top floor in equivalent space he had made the lines seem more horizontal. It was, indeed, a kind of architectural synecopation. "Curiously enough," he said, "the only person who has yet noticed it was a musician."

Every feature of the great building Mr. Holden has thought out for himself, with his long experience of material and workmanship to guide him. The windows themselves do not look aggressively original, yet they are different from other windows, and in a common-sense way. They are in five-sections. The lowest section, about six inches high, opens inward from the bottom so that the air coming in is deflected upwards and does not create a draft for those inside working at a desk about that level. The section above is a casement window of two panes opening outward at a convenient height for an ordinary person who wants to lean out. Above that is a fixed section. The top section, much the same size as the lowest one, opens inward for ventilation. The whole problem of the window has been thought out from the inside, not from the outside, as is the prevailing method in the designing of public buildings.

THE BRONZE DOORS

Two of the bronze doors are in position, one facing the British Museum's entrance, the other on the west side. The openings are almost square, the architect having abjured the ornate high entrance which scholastic buildings usually have as an inheritance from their religious origins, where symbols and relics were carried high in procession. These square doorways rather suggest the flocking out and in of crowds of eager students. The chief entrances will

GERMANY'S CLAIM FOR COLONIES

Hitler's Dynamic Proclamation

"THE RIGHT TO LIVE"

The annual Nazi party Congress was held at Nuremberg on September 9. The chief event, was the reading of Hitler's proclamation.

Before the opening Herr Lutz, chief of the Storm Troops, read the list of members of the Nazi party who had died. According to this 52 party members had been killed since the Nazis came to power in February, 1933. The latest list included three killed in Danzig, six in Spain, and Herr Gutzlow, who was shot in Switzerland.

HITLER'S PROCLAMATION

After Herr Hesse's speech, Herr Julius Streicher, Regional Leader of Nuremberg, welcomed the Congress, and then Herr Wagner, Regional Leader of South Bavaria, read Herr Hitler's opening proclamation. Though present, Herr Hitler, according to the Nazi tradition, did not read it himself.

"Our doctrine," said the proclamation, "has again and again been confirmed by a visible success. We can look back with pride to the achievements of the past four years, and specially to the last year. Disturbances in the countries around Germany have justified our policy. When we took over power in Germany in 1933 I asked for four years, after which I would ask the German people to give their judgment upon us. What would our opponents have said if we had not fulfilled our programme?"

"Our ports no longer resemble churchyards. Our factories have quadrupled their staff. Krupp's factory is again re-sounding with activity and everybody is working for the common weal and not for their own private profit. All this has been achieved without our having a single Jew in the cultural leadership of the German nation." (Prolonged applause.)

"To-day," continued the proclamation, "The Reich in its political and military leadership is stronger than ever. Unrest fills the world. With the exception of one Great Power, and a few other nations we see countries filled with Bolshevik ferment. Even Jewish journalists cannot distort the truth that the German people are again happy. Our regeneration took place without harming any other nation. In those four years we had more worries than all other Governments in half a century."

THE COLONIAL QUESTION

"How easy it is for other Governments to solve their economic problems since they have all the necessary colonial raw materials at their disposal. There will always be a scarcity of agricultural products in Germany, but their import is made difficult because we must also import other vital raw materials. For this reason we must export, and it is to be regretted that the world does not understand this situation."

"We must export, and it is unreasonable for the world to complain of our cheap export. If a British politician says that Germany does not need colonies and could buy her raw materials abroad, then this is just as intelligent as the remark of the Bourbon prince who said of the people asking for bread: 'Why do they not eat cake?'"

"All this would not trouble us if Germany had not lost her colonies. Some say we do not need colonies. Nevertheless, we should know how to make them an economic success. Indeed, this would be less be in either side of the great tower, making a passage-way through its space."

Mr. Holden's design for the surface of the doors is a curious pattern of flat bosses and panels in varying parts, which will not be seen in its grandeur until its projecting parts are polished. Meanwhile the general effect suggests that the architect has thought to emphasise the metallic qualities of the metal instead of the plastic treatments that are the fashion. The lamp-standards in the street outside—a simple post with a well-proportioned vertical iron ring in which the lamp is set on top in line with the kerb—are also Mr. Holden's design.

difficult for us than the reduction of unemployment, in which all other Governments have failed. An improvement of the standard of living can only be achieved to a limited extent. Not wages but production is essential. We could have increased wages by 20, 30, or 50 per cent, but without an increase of production it would be a self-deception."

WHY WAGES CANNOT BE INCREASED

The proclamation then explained that it was impossible to raise wages at present. "An increase of wages and reduced production would lead to a devaluation of the currency. Increased wages and reduced production are one of the causes of deflation. The increase of German production can only take place in industries for which the raw materials are obtainable at home."

"This is the most difficult problem we have to face. We have brought 5,000,000 people back to work, and these 5,000,000 of new buyers are burdening the German food market. We are not so much worried about the scarcity of butter, but about how to keep employment stable. We are not concerned about the wishes of the upper ten thousand. Our concern is that the workman should get his fat, his meat, and his potatoes."

The proclamation then announced a new four-year plan whereby Germany must be entirely independent of other countries for all raw materials which can be produced by German chemists, mines, or factories. "The establishment of these raw material industries will absorb the workmen who will be free after the completion of our rearmament programme. I have just issued the necessary decrees for this."

COLONIAL CLAIMS CANNOT BE RENOUNCED

"But, apart from that, Germany cannot renounce her claim for a solution of her colonial demands (Prolonged applause and cheers). The right of Germans to live is just as great as the right of other nations. This new programme is a tremendous task. But to accomplish it is only a question of our energy. As Nazis we have never known the word 'impossible.' In four years we will render our account to the nation on our safeguarding of Germany's food supply."

"This is not a question of economic liberty but a question of to be or not to be. It is a question of the independence of the German nation. Without social peace at home our programme cannot be realised. The terms 'employer' or 'employee' are unimportant. Where would we be to-day if we had strikes—if everyone believed he could fix his own wages?"

"Our work must not be handicapped by crazy institutions where nothing is done but talk. I could not look ahead with confidence if I did not know that social peace in Germany is guaranteed by the Nazi movement."

"We are not afraid of a Bolshevik invasion of Germany, because we are determined to make Germany so strong that she can ward off any attack from the outside with the utmost brutal determination. This is the reason for the military measures which we have taken. These measures increase or decrease according to necessity."

"I want to say in this proclamation that we will not leave anything undone to safeguard our peace. The German people have no other desire than to live in peace and friendship with all those who leave us alone and who themselves desire peace. We feel united with all nations who think likewise. The more turbulent the world around Germany is, and the more the sky begins to darken with Bolshevism, the more readily will the German people stand behind their army."

SWEET AND SAVOURY FRITTERS

The many excellent dishes that come under the heading of fritters may be classified as sweet and savoury and are made with fruit and vegetables—both fresh and cooked—the remains of cold meat and poultry, and lastly fish which is particularly good when cooked in this manner.

There are several points to guard against when making these tasty dishes and failure can only be attributed to either an improperly made batter, too slow a fire, the wrong kind of utensil used, or an insufficient amount of frying fat to cook them in. If these points are carefully attended to there will be no difficulty whatever in producing satisfactory results and the fritters will be appetizing and good.

To take each point in order, it is necessary then to be able to make a good batter first which is the foundation of all fritters and should be prepared at least an hour before it is used.

SAVOURY BATTER

For a savoury batter four eggs to four ounces of melted butter (or best salad oil if preferred), to seven ounces of flour is the standard recipe, which may be altered for sweet fritters by the addition of sugar and flavourings. It should be carefully noted that the proper consistency of the batter is its most important point. If too thick it will not coat the fritter evenly, forming lumps here and there and making them heavy and tough when fried. The addition of the stiffly beaten whites of eggs last of all to the batter helps to thin it down, as well as adding lightness to the fritter.

GOOD HEAT

A brisk even fire is the second essential point in this kind of frying and a deep frying-pan with a wire basket is recommended when there are several fritters to be cooked. The fat used should be quite two inches deep with enough space in the pan to prevent boiling over. Most people use clarified beef suet with very good results, but the various vegetable products on the market are well worth a trial when large quantities are needed and butter or ghee is found too expensive.

FIRST TEST

To test the proper heat of the fat, drop a small piece of bread into it when boiling and if it browns and rises to the surface almost at once the fat is ready to receive the fritters—but if there is heavy smoke arising, the fat is far too hot. Be sure to have the fritters entirely covered by the fat and allow them to cook a deep rich brown. Lift up with a perforated spoon and drain on a sheet of kitchen paper. When quite dry dust either with salt or sugar according to the kind of fritter made. Never put in more than the pan can easily hold and reheat the fat before frying each batch.

The fish, meat or whatever it is to be cooked, should be cut in neat pieces, kept free from any moisture and arranged on a dish ready to be dipped into the batter before frying.

VEGETABLE FRITTERS

Mix and sift one cup flour, half teaspoon salt and one and half teaspoons baking powder together. Beat two eggs and add to them quarter cup of milk, stir in the flour gradually and beat well to prevent it getting lumpy. Add two ounces of melted butter and two cups of cooked chopped vegetables such as peas, carrots, beans or cauliflower and pumpkin, mix all well into the batter, season with pepper and salt and drop by tablespoons into deep hot fat and fry a light brown. Drain and serve hot with grated cheese.

CHEESE FRITTERS

Put half pound grated cheese, one cup flour, three beaten eggs, cayenne and salt into a bowl, add a teaspoon of Worcester sauce, and after mixing the ingredients, form into fritters dip in egg and roll in crumbs and fry in hot fat till well browned. Serve with tomato sauce.

FRUIT FRITTERS

Bananas, apples, pineapples or peaches may be used in making fritters and are very nice when eaten hot. Make a batter of four ounces flour, sifted with a teaspoon of baking powder, and two eggs beaten with half a cupful of milk. Stir in an ounce of melted butter and allow the batter to stand for an hour, after beating it up. Pare and core the fruit, to be used, dip each slice in the batter and fry, sprinkle with powdered sugar.

SALMON PUDDING

Put half a pound of tinned salmon into a bowl and break it up with a fork. Add two tablespoonfuls of breadcrumbs, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, and a pinch of pepper and salt. Bind the mixture together with two well-beaten eggs and turn it into a greased mould. Cover with greased paper and steam slowly till the mixture is firm. Turn the mould out on to a hot dish and serve with butter sauce made as follows: Chop up a small onion finely, mix it with two dessertspoonfuls of vinegar, and cook slowly in a pan till most of the vinegar has evaporated. Then add a piece of butter, a little at a time, stirring continuously until the mixture becomes thick. Serve once.

WHIPPING

To prevent an aching arm when beating or whipping batters, cake mixtures, cream or white of egg, move the bowl from one level to another and thus change the position of the muscle action. If the whisk is warmed before beating up egg whites they can be done much more quickly.

LUNCHEON CAKE

A good and easily made cake is made as follows. Prepare a fairly large cake tin by lining it with two or three thicknesses of greased paper. Dry a pound of plain flour and sift it into a mixing-bowl with a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt and a teaspoonful of mixed spice. Rub in finely half a pound of butter, then add half a pound of sugar, the grated rind of a lemon, two ounces of chopped candied peel, half a pound of chopped raisins, half a pound of currants, and half a pound of sultanas. Beat three eggs with a full breakfastcup of milk, add a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda, and mix thoroughly with the other ingredients at once. Put the mixture into the prepared tin and bake in a moderate oven for two and a half to three hours, reducing the heat a little towards the end.

SCOTCH MIST

Try this for your next dinner party sweet:—

Crush about 1 dozen small macaroons and some stale sponge cake in a basin, moisten with a liqueur glass of maraschino and half a cup of cream so as to form a stiff paste. Heap it in a pyramid in a glass or silver dish. Whisk cream with a little sugar and flavouring, divide in halves and colour one pink and the other green. Place in a forcing bag a tablespoonful of each, alternately and pipe it over the pyramid. Decorate with glace cherries, angelica, preserved rose petals or in any way preferred.

ICING

When no icing sugar is available for glace icing put three-quarters of a cupful of ordinary sugar and half a teaspoonful of water into a pan and boil till it is thick and syrupy. When stirred with a spoon it should leave the tail of the spoon. Have ready the stiffly whisked white of one egg and then gradually beat the syrup into the white of egg. Use the icing at once. To make a little icing sugar go a long way mix with it some fine breadcrumbs. There is no noticeable difference in the taste, and the consistency of the icing is much improved. A substitute for whipped cream can be made by slicing a banana and adding this to the white of an egg. Then whisk all together till stiff.

CREAMS

These sweets are always welcome at party-time, and they are very simple to prepare. All you want is a gill of cream, three-quarters of a pint of ordinary boiled custard, sugar, and half an ounce of gelatine. Creams are best made in a refrigerator, but if you have not one, in hot weather you must add rather more gelatine.

Coffee cream is made by using milk and coffee mixed as you like, and chocolate cream by adding an ounce of chocolate when making your custard. For example:

CHOCOLATE CREAM

Make a boiled custard (three-quarters of a pint) with the addition of an ounce of chocolate. Let the custard get quite cold, then add the gill of cream (which should be half-whipped) and sweeten it to taste. Now add your half-ounce of gelatine dissolved in a little water, stir in a basin in cold water until the cream begins to set, then mould it. If you like, you can add the gelatine first to the cold custard, sweeten it and when it just begins to set fold in the half-whipped cream and mould it.

OTHER FLAVOURINGS

You can make a cream flavoured with vanilla or some other flavouring, and add small dice of banana, pineapple, glaces cherries or ginger, and these fruits should be added (about two ounces for the quantities given above) in the first case before the gelatine is added, and in the second case afterwards.

If you want a richer cream, use half a pint of custard to half a pint of cream. A still richer cream is made by using simply one pint of cream and two ounces of gelatine, the cream then being simply flavoured with wine or a liqueur and sweetened to taste.

And make sure to strain the dissolved gelatine before mixing it in.

SHOPKEEPER LOOKS IN THE WINDOWS

Annoyed By What He Sees

OXFORD SHUTTERS

A sidelight on shoppers was given to the Drapers' Chamber of Trade Summer School, at Oxford, recently, by Mr. Harry Trethowan, of Messrs. Heal and Son, Tottenham Court-road.

He confessed that when he went out to look at the windows he sometimes followed people to hear what they said.

"One afternoon," said Mr. Trethowan, "I followed an old man and his wife—two old-age pensioners. I should think—and they were looking in the windows. They stopped in front of one which was the choicest that one could think of and was a very long way beyond their dreams.

"The old man turned to his wife and said, 'Mary, what about it?' She said, 'Give me the kitchen every time, John.'"

Some of Mr. Trethowan's comments were: "When I say most windows annoy me I do not think I am very far from the truth. I think it is such a pity, as you move up and down the country, that you cannot get some pleasure out of the business end of the town or city you are visiting.

"I find that windows are all pretty much alike because the imagination does not run to anything different.

UNCONSCIOUS HUMOUR

"I have been asked whether I ever tried to dress a humorous window, but in my opinion so many windows are unconsciously humorous that it would be a pity to try and make them any different.

"Freakish displays are not essentially business getters; they may halt the passer-by, they may even raise a laugh, but the main theme

HOW TO TAKE 'ASPRO' FOR DENGUE

At the first signs of the dreaded Dengue don't procrastinate—

Take two to three 'ASPRO' tablets every two hours until the fever abates and the pain ceases. 'ASPRO' is the greatest Fever Antidote ever given to the world. No other medicine has its anti-pyretic, anti-periodic and anti-germinal properties after ingestion in the system. 'ASPRO' is far more effective than quinine and there are no harmful after effects. Make certain that 'ASPRO' is always in the home ready for any emergency.

Nothing Equals 'ASPRO' for Dengue & Rheumatism

Selly's Estate,
Incham, North Queensland.
Dear Sirs,
Having used your 'ASPRO' for Dengue Fever and also for Rheumatism, I have found that nothing equals 'ASPRO' for relief from pain.
I was very bad the last week in December, and could not sleep with rheumatism in my legs. A neighbour called to see me, and she told me that 'ASPRO' tablets were good for pain. I straightway sent to the chemist for a box of 'ASPRO' and I can truthfully say that I was surprised at the relief I got after taking the first two 'ASPRO' tablets—they took away the pain and I could sleep of a night. I took three tablets a night for five nights, and they relieved me, and now I am as well as ever.
Yours faithfully,
(Sgt.) (Mrs.) FLORRIE LOVE.

'ASPRO' Works Wonders for Malaria

Gladstone, Queensland.
Gentlemen,
I think it is up to me to let you know how I have benefited by 'ASPRO'. Ever since 1910 I have been a sufferer from MALARIA FEVER, having contracted same in Rhodesia, German East Africa and the Straits Settlements.
I came to Australia from the latter country five years ago, and for the first two and a half years was continually in hospital at Victoria and New South Wales. On arriving in Queensland, a friend advised me to try 'ASPRO'. I did, and it has worked wonders. I still continue to get night attacks of Malaria, but if I take a few 'ASPRO' tablets and hot lemon water, and rest a few hours, I am quite O.K. again. I wouldn't be without 'ASPRO' for anything, and always carry a box about with me. I can thoroughly recommend them to anyone suffering from the same malady.
This testimonial is unsolicited and you may make any use of it that you think fit.
Yours faithfully,
L. D. HAY-COGBLAN

"LAWLESS" WOMEN

Nothing Considered Impossible

That all women are lawless is argued by Rosita Forbes in a recent number of "Woman's Journal". Men break laws for profit, she says, but women do it as a matter of course.

To the common criticism that the sex is illogical, she answers that that is why nothing is impossible to it. "When their hearts are concerned, women will break every law on the statute book."

In a study of "Beauty Bronzed," Jean Cleland summarises the matter thus:

"Nothing is more flattering to the looks than sun tan, if well carried out. But it must be done with thought, care, and artistry."

is the value of a window from the selling standpoint.

"My idea is, I can make Tottenham Court-road a pleasant place to walk down and give pleasure to people who do not want to run anything.

"More windows should be able to be seen at night. In Oxford recently, for instance, I noticed some of the window shutters were well down. I don't know whether people are dishonest in Oxford or not, but you cannot see a long line of windows.

"There is one thing I cannot understand—that is, why some people go into business, or anything else for that matter, because apparently they dislike it so. They never seem to worry about getting to grips with it, and they say, 'Thank goodness it's Saturday midday, and we shan't see this place until Monday.'"

OLD SOLDIERS

WANT TO ENLIST

Recruits For New Defence Corps

There has not been such liveliness on London's recruiting front for years—middle-aged men walking up to join the National Defence Companies of the Territorial Army; young men pouring in for the new Supplementary Reserve of Infantry.

As the old Chelsea pensioner outside Great Scotland Yard, the recruiting headquarters, remarked, "Anybody would think a war was on."

There was a fine poster display at the entrance, setting out the special terms for young men between 17 and 25, and inside a dozen young fellows who called within the first two hours had a friendly reception, a medical examination, and a cup of tea each.

Sir Harry Knorr, the Adjutant-General, walked over to the depot and had a talk with them, letting them see that he liked their spirit.

SOLDIERS' SONS THERE

There were soldiers' sons among these recruits and one man said that his dad was on the way to a Territorial headquarters to enrol in the National Defence Companies. If he succeeded he had to hurry.

The enthusiasm shown by the boys of the old brigade for this scheme is such, that like a popular issue in the City, it has been over-subscribed at the start. About 8,450 men between the ages of 40 and 60 are wanted throughout the whole country; London's quota is 900—234 in the City and 666 each for the 12 County of London battalions.

Many of these battalions had waiting lists this morning.

They have been receiving letters for days from men, who did their bit in the Great War and are eager to take over such duties as the National Defence Companies are to perform—doing sentry go outside munition works or wherever else guards may be needed.

A PLEDGE

There is a pledge that the men who enrol in these companies will not be used in any civil disturbance.

They enrol only for a war emergency, when they would be served out with uniforms and rifles and assigned their places so as to release younger men for more important work.

One or two applicants were veterans of the Boer War.

Others had been at Mons and at Ypres and on the Somme.

Men in important positions in the business world in London and many working men are on the lists.

Four working men, all in the fifties, were among the personal callers at the 9th London headquarters to-day.

All of them had been on the Western front. They took away with them forms to fill up with a declaration that they were willing to enrol and to report in writing on in person once a year.

"Keen as Mustard"

"The old chaps we have had all look very sound and they are as keen as mustard," an "Evening News" representative was told at the Territorial headquarters.

"London will be able to select its 900 in several thousands."

WIRELESS
TELEPHONY IN MINES

Experimental Test

A recent demonstration of ultra-short-wave wireless telephony below the earth's surface has demonstrated the practicability of a system of communication which would be available when existing services have broken down. Tests were conducted by Transreceivers Limited, of Ewell, by permission of Messrs Pearson and Dorman Long, Limited, in Betteshanger Colliery, and consistently good reception was obtained between the surface and the bottom of the pit and with the more remote workings of the mine.

The practical value of the wireless would be obvious in the event of a disaster, when communication between rescue parties and the passing of reports and instructions could be maintained in spite of extensive damage in the workings; but the permanent adoption of ultra-short-wave equipment at strategic points would appear to offer many advantages.

Although official recognition by the Ministry of Mines has not been given to the demonstration by the Hermes Transceiver it is understood that as a result of the tests an order has been placed by an Indian colliery firm for mine-rescue equipment.

The apparatus comprises a self-contained telephony transmitter and receiver which operates on a wave-length of about 4.5 metres. Two valves are employed in the set for receiving and their functions are reversed when transmitting. The only control necessary to change over from receiver to transmitter is a single switch. Batteries are carried separately, and as no excessively high voltages are employed (the highest being 160v) there is no danger from electric shock. The equipment is easily portable, and when transmitting the power in the aerial is about one watt.

For the demonstration at Betteshanger Colliery one Transceiver was installed at the pit-head, another at about the 2,000ft. level, and another between 2,000ft. and 3,000ft. along the workings. Normal routine was being carried on in the mine, including the running of a 3,000-volt generating plant, and during the whole period of the tests excellent two-way communication was maintained between the three stations. Signals were loud and there was little interference, which was due, no doubt, to the peculiar properties of the ultra-short wave-length which was employed in the tests.

NEW CAR PARKING
IN SHANGHAI

The new car parking regulations for the Central District of the International Settlement, which were to have been enforced on September 5, and which were postponed following further consideration by the Shanghai Municipal Council after the annual recess, will now be put into effect in their entirety from October 15, according to an announcement made by the Council on Sept. 16.

The postponement was due to the flood of public criticism directed against the regulations, and to the action of the Automobile Club of China which took a leading part in attacking features of the regulations. The new ruling over-rides these objections.

The decision to enforce the new rules on October 15 was made at a meeting of the Shanghai Municipal Council held on Tuesday evening, at which the members reviewed all arguments for and against the proposed changes. They were assisted by a comprehensive report from the Commissioner of Police.

PEIPING PALACE
MUSEUM

More Valuables Lost

Peiping, Sept. 15. The loss of more valuables of the Peiping Palace Museum was discovered yesterday, during an inspection of relics. Thirty rubies, an ivory bird, and an amulet made of sapphire and other precious stones, are missing.

Mr. Chang Ting-chi, Director of the General Affairs Department of the Museum, in an interview, said that in 1928 the Museum was under the custody of the guards of the Ministry of Interior, and the articles were probably stolen at that time.

KILLEDTrain Collides
With Omnibus

Hankow, Sept. 14.

Eight passengers were killed and thirteen seriously injured when the north-bound No. 22 through train of the Canton-Hankow Railway collided with an omnibus of the Hunan Highway Bureau, which was heading southwards for Hengchow, southern Hunan. The collision occurred near the Kawan station, 20 miles south of Changsha, provincial capital of Hunan, at 5 a.m. The omnibus was knocked down and crushed to pieces by the train. One locomotive and three third-class coaches were overturned, causing the death of 8 passengers and serious injury to 13 others. Three hundred feet of rails were damaged.

On receipt of reports, the Canton-Hankow Railway authorities ordered the Engineering Bureau to dispatch a corps of workmen to the spot to effect repairs to the damaged tracks and to retrieve the overturned locomotive and coaches.

The wounded were rushed to hospital for treatment. Compensation will be given to the families of the passengers killed, in accordance with the railway regulations. Severe punishment will be meted out to the railway staff responsible for the accident. An investigation will be immediately made in order to determine the responsibility of the guilty persons.

TESTED FLYING
FLEA SAFEResult Of Wind
Tunnel TrialsBUILT STRICTLY TO SPECIFICATION

The Air Ministry tests in the full-sized wind tunnel at Farnborough, to discover the cause of accidents to miniature aeroplanes of the Flying Flea type, were recently concluded.

Mr. C. E. Mercer, a motor engineer, of Lewisham, whose machine was selected by the Air League for the test, stated that no fault could be found with it. It was constructed very closely to the specifications of the French inventor, M. Mignet.

It is therefore reasonable to assume that a machine so made will not go into the uncontrolled dive which has caused fatal accidents both in this country and abroad.

REPORT TO BE ISSUED

It has been the theory of Air League officials that, if the cause of the dive could be discovered, there would be no need for further anxiety, as practically all the accidents were due to this trouble. It is known that some amateur constructors have not strictly adhered to the specifications of the inventor.

A report will be issued on the test. Last winter it was estimated that nearly 1,000 amateur constructors were making Flying Fleas in Great Britain. But the fatal accidents induced the Air League to appeal to the Air Ministry to impose a temporary ban on the flying of the machines until the tests had been made.

"THE DARK ANGEL"

A new Merle Oberon with an entirely different personality will be seen in "The Dark Angel," the Samuel Goldwyn production which begins a three-day run at the Star Theatre to-day.

The bizarre costumes, the Oriental slant of the eyes, the exotic make-up and costumes are gone and instead Merle is revealed as a sweet, lovely young English girl, very closely resembling herself. As a matter of fact, the idea behind the change was to attempt to convey the charming off-stage personality that is Merle Oberon to the screen.

Sharing stellar honours with Freddie March and Herbert Marshall in this great love story, Merle plays pretty Kitty Vane, who since her childhood has found her life interwoven with the lives of two neighbourhood boys—cousins—Alan Trent (March) and Gerald Shannon (Marshall). As far back as she can remember, Kitty has adored the indifferent Alan, and Gerald has adored her. Lillian Hellman and Mordaunt Shairp prepared the screenplay of "The Dark Angel" from a play by Guy Bolton. Sidney Franklin directed the film, which is released through United Artists.

Others prominent in the cast include Janet Beecher, John Halliday, Henrietta Crossman, Frieda Inescort, Claude Allister, George Brackston, David Torrence, Cora Sue Collins and Fay Chaldecott.

"42nd STREET"

"42nd Street," an all-inclusive dramatic musical comedy spectacle of the theatre, is at the Majestic Theatre to-day, with an all star cast of noted screen and stage players.

The screen play, based on the popular novel of Bradford Ropes, is said to contain every ingredient that makes for a really great picture. It is snappy, colourful and packed with laughs. It has, also a dramatic underlying theme and reveals the mammoth spectacle of a musical comedy show in preparation and when it is finished.

Because it is a story of the backstage world of the theatre, each member of the cast was selected with an eye to stage experience as well as screen talent. The stellar names include Warner Baxter, Bebe Daniels, George Brent, Una Merkel, Ruby Keeler, Guy Kibbee, Ned Sparks, Dick Powell, Ginger Rogers and Allen Jenkins, all of whom have been prominent on both stage and screen.

"42nd Street" has one of the most imposing picture-casts since "Grand Hotel." Behind its dramatic story of the lives and loves of the stage folk, there is presented a complete musical comedy show, which has been heralded as the most novel and spectacular ever produced for the screen.

The musical show was staged by Busby Berkeley, the noted Broadway director, who also created the dance numbers and ensembles. Special songs were written for the picture by Al Dubin and Harry Warren, the well known Broadway lyricist and composer. The numbers include "I'm Young and Healthy," "Shuffle Off to Buffalo," "You're Getting To Be A Habit With Me" and the title piece "42nd Street."

STARS IMITATE STARS

In This Film Which London Saw

When His Majesty's Theatre opened as a cinema recently the audience was composed mainly of London theatrical people and first-nighters, who paid 24s. for their seats.

And they saw on the screen, in "The Great Ziegfeld," impersonations of many stars whom they have known in real life.

Several of the characters actually saw themselves being imitated at the Hollywood first night.

Foremost among these was Billie Burke, who was the great American showman's second wife.

Miss Burke is under contract to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, the producers of the film, and it was an embarrassing moment when they had to go to her and suggest that as they had to show her when she was 25 perhaps it would be as well—if someone else played this important part.

Miss Burke is 51 now, though she does not look that age on the screen in her delightful comedy parts. But she did not mind a younger star having the part.

"That's all right," she said, "I understand. What about Myrna Loy? Not exactly like me, but I think she's the type." Later she coached Miss Loy in her own little ways and mannerisms.

Then there was Eddie Cantor, looking at his imitator—Buddy Doyle, who appears in the film as Eddie when he was a black-faced comedian in the Ziegfeld shows.

Will Rogers was played by an amateur actor—A. A. Trimble, a stock-broker, who was taking his first and only film part. He is an exact double of the late comedian.

William Powell who has the part of Ziegfeld, was coached by the showman's English valet, who was with him for more than 20 years, and by his accountant.

Reginald Owen plays the accountant, and during rehearsals of a scene in which he appeared with Mr. Powell and Lulu Rainer as Arina Held, the famous Ziegfeld star, the real accountant supplied witty lines which Ziegfeld actually used when that scene was acted in real life.

To fit it for the large crowds of a cinema, the box office of His Majesty's was enlarged. The film lasts for three hours.

COLUMBIA SIGNS NEW CHILD ACTRESS

Columbia Pictures this week placed under long-term contract two-year-old Patsy O'Connor, who sings, dances and does impersonations and characterizations. Miss Patsy is a scion of "The O'Connors," long famous in vaudeville and made her theatrical debut at the tender age of eight months.

By the time she had reached the mature age of a year and a half she was introduced as one of the regular members of the singing-dancing-acrobatic troupe of "O'Connors."

Going to the Coast after the expedition, the O'Connors were promptly signed for vaudeville and achieved new successes. Miss Patsy, gaining notice for her beauty and increasing perfection as a child entertainer, attracted Columbia officials. A successful screen test followed, which resulted in the young lady being placed under contract.

A high spirited, fast moving romance, studded with laughs and enacted by a skilled cast, is being shown to-day at the Queen's Theatre, where Walter Wagner's "Spendthrift" will have its initial screenings.

With Henry Fonda, Mary Brian and Pat Paterson in the leading roles, "Spendthrift" relates the story of a wealthy youth who lets himself be married to a gold-digger, and loses his last cent when his fast ally falls him in the Kentucky Derby.

YOUNG ACTORS FORM SCREEN BOYS' CLUB

The Screen Boys' Club, limited to youngsters who have at least three motion picture roles to their credit, has been organized with Freddie Bartholomew, Jackie Cooper, Mickey Rooney, Bennie Barlett, David Holt, Billy Lee, Sherwood Bailey and Buster Slaven as charter members.

So far as is known, the organization is the first of its kind in Hollywood, where there has never been a separate club for film children. The idea originated with Bartholomew, Cooper and Rooney and the hundred or more boys appearing with them in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Devil Is a Sissy." A motion to include girls in the organization was voted down.

Election of officers will be the first business at the first official meeting, which will probably be held at the home of Director Rowland Brown, who is acting as a sort of god-father to the club.

Age limit has been set at sixteen. Inasmuch as none of the charter members is more than at least two years in the organization, that gives any member

MISTAKE ALLEGED BY DEFENCE

Mrs. V. M. Pearce, residing at No. 71, Hennessy Road, appeared before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Police Court yesterday charged with allowing her Alsatian dog to be abroad in Hennessy Road on August 29 without a lead or muzzle.

Sergeant J. Galvin stated that there was no Police evidence. Two small boys, one of whom was bitten by the dog, were witnesses.

Chak Sui Chuen, aged 10, stated that he was bitten by a dog in Hennessy Road on August 29. He reported the matter to the Wanchai Police Station and when taken back to the house recognised the dog which had bitten him.

Lau Man Yin, aged 9, stated that he was with Chak when he was bitten by the dog. Later at Kennedy Town, he was able to identify the dog in the presence of Sanitary Insp. Strange.

Sgt. Galvin said that this was the third summons this year for the same dog and the Colonial Veterinary Surgeon was anxious to have it destroyed as it was a ferocious animal. The defendant had inadequate quarters in which to keep the dog, the premises being a cafe and there being ample opportunity for it to go out.

Defendant said that in the house were many dogs like her's and that in this case she was sure that there had been a mistake for her had had pups on that particular day.

Defendant was fined $15 and ordered to keep it under proper control.

For Theft

'I SWEAR BY GOD I
DID NOT STEAL'

Although Sahki Mohamed, 30, vehemently denied his guilt, Mr. E. Himsforth, at the Kowloon Magistracy, fined him $10 or one month in gaol for stealing two tablecloths and one napkin from the R.M.S. Empress of Canada.

Mr. J. M. MacKenzie, shipping agent of the Canadian Pacific Steamship, was present in Court as complainant.

Defendant pleaded not guilty when the charge was read to him. Mr. MacKenzie deposed that the linen was probably from the second class mess room, and identified them as belonging to the Canadian Steamship Co.

The next witness was Leung Tsun, a hawker of fruits and aerated water. He stated that on September 17 at 8 p.m., defendant gave him a bundle wrapped in a single for him to look after.

Early the next morning, he returned with another bundle wrapped in a napkin which he gave to his folk.

He did not know what was in the package, but he saw the mark "C. P. S." on the goods. He notified the master-at-arms immediately, and defendant was arrested.

Previous to that day, witness had never seen the defendant.

CONSPIRACY ALLEGED

In reply to these accusations defendant replied: "It is a case of conspiracy."

Li On, folk of Leung Tsun, stated that the parcel received was wrapped in a handkerchief.

Defendant: Those are false accusations. I did not steal.

Tang To, another folk, said that the bundle was wrapped in paper, and the second parcel was covered in a single.

Sgt. A. S. Farquhar, who arrested the defendant, said that on September 18, at 8.20 a.m., he received a telephone call from the master-at-arms, and went aboard

VERDICT

Sitting as Coroner, without a jury, Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday returned a verdict of death from misadventure at the conclusion of the inquest into the death of a youth, Ho So Hing, who was one of seven youths who were drowned when they were washed down a nullah in Babington Path, during a torrential downpour of rain in the typhoon on August 18.

Yesterday Dr. G. H. Henry, Medical Officer in charge of the Kowloon Mortuary, testified that on August 20, he examined the body of a twenty-year old youth who was identified as Ho So Hing by Ho Lai Chan, his sister, in the presence of Sgt. C. Madley.

The body was too decomposed to determine the cause of death, but there were no ante-mortem signs of violence.

Mr. Himsforth, giving his verdict, said: "I find that Ho So Hing was drowned in front of the China Navigation Company's Wharf at Kowloon on August 19. Death was due to misadventure."

One morning the family were awakened with crowing. It was the "ex-hen."

Mr. Jackson further asserts that later he noticed the "pullet" was growing a comb and wattles.

The crowing has convinced him that the "pullet" is a "changed bird"—because he has no other roosters in his flock.

The Empress of Canada, and took defendant to the station.

"I swear by God that I did not steal at all, I have no other answer, and nothing else to say," said the accused from the dock.

Mr. Himsforth agreed that there were discrepancies in the evidence of the witnesses.

Inspector A. Kinnear informed his Worship that defendant had been previously dismissed from the Police Guard, with only a fair record.

Mr. Himsforth: As watchman, did he have access to certain parts of the ship?

Inspector Kinnear:—Yes, especially, when he went for his meals.

Mr. Himsforth:—Because you have access to all parts of the ship, I shall regard your case as serious.

Defendant was convicted and fined.

DEATH OF ARMY OFFICER

MAJ. F. LE GROS

We regret to record the death of Major F. G. Le Gros, Officer Commanding the 12th Heavy Battery, Royal Artillery, Lyceum, which occurred at the Government Civil Hospital on Tuesday afternoon. The late Major Le Gros was 43 years of age.

Army circles were shocked at the news of his demise.

Apparently hale and hearty on Sunday, he was taken suddenly ill with appendicitis the next day and was removed to hospital, where he underwent an operation. Major Le Gros never recovered consciousness and passed away at 4 p.m. on Tuesday.

The deceased officer leaves a widow and two sons to whom the utmost sympathy will be extended in their sad bereavement. They are at present in England and on receipt of the news of her husband's illness, Mrs. Le Gros intended to fly out to Hong Kong. It is now thought that this will be unlikely.

Full military honours were accorded and companies of men which included the 12th Heavy Battery, 9th and 7th Anti-Aircraft Battery, 24th and 20th Heavy Battery were drawn up with rifles preceding the hearse.

Immediately in front of the cortege on either side of which walked officers of the Heavy Battery and others, was the band of the Royal Ulster Rifles.

The chief mourner was Lt. Col. M. Carrington-Sykes, Officer Commanding, 8th Heavy Battery. Behind the chief mourner and officers of the Royal Artillery, was drawn up officers of other regiments stationed in the Colony (including the H.K.V.D.C.), which were headed by H.E. Major General A. W. Bartholomew, General Officer Commanding, accompanied by Lt. J. P. Howarth, A.D.C.

At the entrance of the cemetery, men of the Royal Artillery lined the roadway on both sides, standing at attention with heads bowed and rifles reversed.

The Rev. H. C. Davies, M.C., M.A., Senior Chaplain to the Forces, officiated at the graveside.

The firing party composed of a squad from the 12th Heavy Battery, the escort being from the 8th Heavy Anti-Aircraft Battery. Buglers from the Royal Artillery sounded the "Reveille."

The coffin was draped with the Union Jack, and decorated with the sword and decorations were placed on top. Pall bearers were fellow officers of the deceased.

MAINTENANCE SUMMONS

Mother-in-law Blamed For Marital Discord

PERSISTENT CRUELTY ALLEGED BY WIFE

The summons for maintenance brought, by Leung Piu-wong, 23, against her husband, Lee Wah-hong, was heard before Mr. E. Hinmworth at the Kowloon Magistrate's court yesterday.

Mr. M. A. da Silva appeared on behalf of the complainant, and Mr. Peter H. Sin represented the defendant.

At previous hearings of the case the parties could not reach an agreement and, while both solicitors hoped that the last hearing would conclude with a reconciliation, no headway could be gained.

Commencing the case yesterday, Mr. Silva informed the Magistrate that although one charge was on the summons, that of wilful negligence, he would add another, that of persistent cruelty to the wife.

Mr. Sin objected to this, and added that the proper procedure for Mr. Silva was to issue another summons for persistent cruelty.

However, Mr. Hinmworth permitted the addition of another charge, but was prepared to grant another adjournment at any time during the hearing if Mr. Sin had further objection, that is, if he had not been instructed by his client to answer to such a charge.

Mr. Sin wanted to know the actual dates of alleged persistent cruelty, and Mr. Silva replied that the cruelty was actually persistent, and that there were no specific dates to mention. However, he would say that the cruelty started from February, 1933, and lasted until October, 1935, when matters came to a head.

Continuing, Mr. Silva mentioned that "the mother-in-law" was, in this case, an actual fact in real life.

FELL IN LOVE

Complainant was married to defendant in November, 13, 1932 according to Chinese custom. The only deviation from Chinese law was that they fell in love, and the defendant asked for the hand of complainant from her parents.

The first incident that marked their marital happiness occurred in February, 1933, when Leung Sik-wa, complainant's sister, arrived from Macao with some cakes for a gift.

On entering the house, her greeting was too slight to please the mother-in-law, who resented it so much that she locked the iron grill and kept the key with her.

When the time came for her sister to leave, she asked repeatedly for the key, and when it was given to her, it was thrown at her feet.

PUSHED BY MOTHER-IN-LAW

To seal the climax, the mother-in-law pushed the complainant's sister down from the first floor landing to the bottom, and her husband helped with a shove.

Although she was hurt, she went to the Mongkok Police Station, but she was there referred to the S.C.A., where she was advised to keep the peace as the affair was so trivial.

From time to time, complainant was not treated in the manner that a wife should be, and the next crisis was reached on September 22, 1934.

She had left the house to pay a visit to her mother, and upon her return she found a quarrel going on between her in-laws. She was the object of much vituperation, and the essence of the quarrel was that the father-in-law was accused of giving her $4 with which to buy moon-cakes and other presents for her mother, it being the Moon Cake Festival period. She denied those unjust allegations, and her father-in-law suggested that she and her husband should live elsewhere.

The mother-in-law refused to grant that under any circumstances.

DINNER INCIDENT

Another incident happened on August 14, 1935, during another small festival. A duck had been especially prepared for her husband, but as he was on night duty at the time, she kept it in a pot until he returned. The mother-in-law saw the duck, and roundly abused her for keeping good food from her husband. She finished off her anger by slapping her very hard.

On October 13, 1935, after breakfast, complainant asked permission from her husband to attend the wedding of her sister.

CHURCH BURNED BY "HELLFIRE CLUB"

Glasgow Incident Recalled

Glasgow Presbytery recently got a present of "one of the most interesting gifts it has ever received." It was a copy of the Presbytery records for hundreds of years ago—all that remained after the burning of the Glasgow Tron Church in the eighteenth century by the Hellfire Club.

Dr. A. J. Campbell, the joint Presbytery-Clerk, explained that the Presbytery of Glasgow used to meet in the Tron Church, from the time there was a Presbytery. In 1794 one of the rooms in the church was also used by the City Watch, the police of the day.

One night a club known as the "Hellfire Club" found the room empty and put all the furniture on the fire.

RECORDS DESTROYED

Not only did the fire blaze up, but the church was burned down, and the records of the Presbytery were destroyed. The only copy of them was contained in certain notes taken by a Dr. Porteous, a Glasgow minister. These notes had passed through different hands, and now Miss Elizabeth Connall, a member of Hyndland Church, had offered them to the Presbytery.

The Presbytery accepted the gift and expressed its thanks to Miss Connall.

KOWLOON UNION CHURCH WOMEN'S GUILD

Forthcoming Sale Of Work

The weekly meeting of the Kowloon Union Church Women's Guild was held at the Church Hall yesterday morning.

Particulars regarding the Sale of Work to be held on November 7, were discussed. Sewing, knitting and talks on various interesting subjects were done at these meetings. Tea was served after the meeting.

Mrs. J. D. Maclean gave a talk on "Home Nursing" at the Church Hall later in the morning.

The following are the officials: President, Mrs. J. D. Maclean; Vice-President, Mrs. B. Wylie; Hon. Secretary, Mrs. F. Short; Hon. Treasurer, Mrs. H. H. Scott. There are approximately 40 members and the Women's Guild are always pleased to welcome new members.

As her husband said nothing to that, she thought that he agreed. However, as she was leaving the house with her luggage, he suddenly snatched it from her as well as grabbing the wedding ring from her finger.

She was then thrown out of the house, and refused entrance. As she was thus forced to leave the house, she returned to her parents' abode.

UNABLE TO SEE HUSBAND

In trying to gain entrance to her husband's house, she was forced to stand on the sidewalk from 11.30 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. on October 22 without entering. That method of seeing her husband, having failed, she attempted to see him at his place of work, the China Light and Power Co., at Waterloo Road.

She saw him as he came out, but he replied, "I do not want to see you. Go away! I don't want to speak to you."

Complainant then went to see her solicitor, and Mr. Silva wrote a letter to the husband informing him that he could secure some sort of reconciliation if he would give him an audience.

However, defendant went to see the S.C.A. on November 5, 1935.

The attitude of defendant, continued Mr. Silva, was the same now as it was then: that he would not have her as his wife unless they lived with his parents.

Mr. Silva's contention was that the defendant was definitely under the influence of the mother-in-law, and afraid that if he incurred her displeasure he would lose some of his father's estate.

In the witness box, Leung Piu-wong stated that the marriage was not a love match as far as she knew.

She told of the repeated indignities at the hands of her mother-in-law and her husband, and corroborated Mr. Silva's statements.

The hearing was adjourned until September 25 at 2.30 p.m.

SMUGGLING PENALTIES

Officials Of Dunhills Fined

"SYSTEMATIC FRAUD"

Total penalties of £1,021 for making false declarations and evading Customs duty were imposed at Dover recently on Alfred Dunhill Ltd., the tobacco firm, of Duke-street, St. James, a director and officials of the firm.

Alfred Dunhill, Ltd., were summoned for causing false declarations to be made between 1933 and 1935.

Miss Marguerite Eugenie Yvonne Daniel, a buyer of the firm, was summoned for being concerned in attempting to evade Customs Duty between September, 1933, and September, 1935, and for causing false declarations to be made.

DIRECTOR SUMMONED

Vernon Dunhill, a director of the firm, was summoned for making a false declaration in 1934.

Harold Alfred Baker, of the buying department, was summoned for causing false declarations to be made between 1933 and 1935 and for being concerned in a fraudulent attempt at the evasion of Customs duty in March, 1935.

William Bayntun, buying manager, was summoned for being concerned in a fraudulent attempt at the evasion of Customs duty between 1933 and 1935.

John Edwin Barrat, secretary of the company, was summoned for making false declarations between 1934 and 1935 and Ernest John Allstone was summoned for making false declarations in 1933 and 1934.

SYSTEMATIC SMUGGLING

Mr. Walter Frampton, for the defence, admitted the offences.

Mr. E.M. Stephenson for the prosecution said that the goods concerned were fancy articles of all sorts.

Since 1927 Miss Daniel had systematically smuggled goods into this country and was the prime mover in the system of fraud.

Last year a Customs official saw her at Dunhills, when she denied that she had ever brought anything in. Later, when seen again, she said: "Don't waste your time. I've been awful."

She added that her practice was not to disclose the goods to the Customs but to carry them in her handbag or on her person.

She wanted to show up her department in a good light and have better returns. She had not benefited personally.

"Signed Blind"

Mr. Stephenson added that the directors, said, they had "signed blind," and he accepted the statement.

During the whole period there had been a total loss of £315 duty on the importations.

Mr. Frampton said that with regard to Miss Daniel she had acted entirely without the knowledge of her directors.

The chairman said that the magistrates had decided to inflict the following penalties:

Alfred Dunhill, Ltd., £475, to include the £315, together with 20 guineas costs; Miss Daniel, £100; Mr. Baker, £100; Mr. Vernon Dunhill, £100; Mr. Allstone, £100; Mr. Barrat, £75; and Mr. Bayntun, £50, making a total of £1,021.

The defendants were allowed 14 days in which to pay.

Then you hear an outrageous pun. Six people in a theatre announced themselves as "Cicero." Who's Cicero?

The German Claim For Colonies

Herr Hitler's proclamation at the famous Nuremberg congress of the Nazi party is published in this paper to-day, and it will certainly reward the most careful study.

The most interesting part of Herr Hitler's proclamation was that concerned with colonies and Germany's lack of raw materials. It was a reasonable statement, and it was clear that Herr Hitler was speaking the language of Dr. Schacht and the colonial economists rather than that of General von Epp and the Nazi propagandists.

He asked for Germany "the right to live" and not the right to rule; nor did he demand the return of Germany's former colonies, but said only that "Germany cannot renounce her claim for a solution of her colonial demands."

That Germany has a case no one can rightly deny. Her colonies, if returned to her, would be as much an advantage to her as they are now to us—an advantage which "may be relatively small but is not inconsiderable."

In the proclamation Herr Hitler did not mention the advantage of colonies as a market for exports or as an outlet for population, but only "as a source of raw materials. In Britain the usual answer to this is to say that, if she desires, Germany may buy raw materials from British colonies and mandated territories, but Hitler pointed out, justly enough, that this is not so generous as it sounds. We are inclined to forget that no country can acquire the goods it needs from territory under the sovereignty of another nation except by exporting something in exchange—either currency or goods with which to acquire currency, and at present Germany can do neither.

It is not enough to say that it is her own fault, though this may partly be true, for as yet, in spite of the promises of Sir Samuel Hoare, we have done nothing whatever to make it easier for her.

Up to a point, then, Hitler's claims are correct. For Germany the possession of her former colonies would be an advantage, though this is not the same thing as to say she should have them back.

Where Hitler is wrong is in his exaggeration of their importance.

If Germany were given her colonies back to-morrow, she would find it easier to buy the raw materials which they produce—but what materials? Only vanadium from South-west Africa, silver from Tanganyika, phosphates from Nauru; the rest are of negligible importance and would solve none of Germany's difficulties. And it is not true

ONE JAPANESE BLUEJACKET SHOT DEAD AND TWO OTHERS WOUNDED

Shots Fired At Close Range

HONGKEW DISTRICT OUTRAGE

Four Gunmen Concerned In Latest Incident

SUSPECT ARRESTED

SHANGHAI, September 23.—ONE JAPANESE BLUEJACKET WAS SHOT DEAD AND TWO OTHERS WERE WOUNDED IN THE HONGKEW DISTRICT IN SHANGHAI TO-DAY. EIGHT SHOTS WERE FIRED.

The Hongkew and Chapel districts were plunged in turmoil as the result of the shooting which, according to eye-witnesses, was the work of four men who opened fire at close range. The victims staggered into a nearby shop where first class seaman Asamitsu Tamamoto, who was shot in the chest, collapsed and died.

MARINES LANDED

Japanese marines immediately threw a cordon round the district, stopping and searching all passers-by. They arrested a man and a revolver was found in a nearby garage car.

The bluejackets belonged to the Japanese naval landing party who were strolling along together in the International Settlement Road when the shots rang out. One was instantly killed, the second wounded in the chest and the third in the arm.

One Chinese, alleged to be involved in the affair, was arrested and taken to the landing party headquarters.

A battalion of marines landed from the Japanese flagship Idzumi to reinforce the permanent landing party and marched into Hongkew with steel helmets and fixed bayonets.

One Chinese, alleged to be involved in the affair, was arrested and taken to the landing party headquarters.

After the shooting the four gunmen fled under cover of darkness into the alleys honeycombing the district.

The suspect was captured by a Japanese pedestrian who alleged that it is "easy for other Governments to solve their economic problems, since they have all the necessary colonial raw materials at their disposal."

To an overwhelming extent the six "basic materials" (as defined by Dr. Goebbels) are produced in sovereign States. Of the Great Powers, Germany is perhaps the worst off for raw materials, being partly or entirely deficient in every material except coal and potash, but the return of her colonies would make little or no difference to her position in this respect.

To argue that colonies are of no advantage to a capitalist State is hypocrisy, but to argue that they are of enormous importance is nothing but misstatement. There could never be a fair and equal distribution of raw material by apportioning territory to different States.

The best that can be hoped for is to make access to all materials as easy as possible for every State by reducing tariffs and by controlling world currency, and even that would not cancel the advantages of a colonial empire as a market for exports. But so long as the Great Imperial Powers, and especially Great Britain, make no move to get rid of currency restrictions, to lower tariffs, to extend the mandate principle to their own colonies, and to offer their mandated territories for international administration, then so long, too, will the German demands remain difficult, if not impossible, to answer.

SENSATION IN TOKYO

Tokyo, Sept. 23.
Newspaper extras, giving details of the Shanghai incident caused a sensation at the capital. Informed quarters express the opinion that the situation is extremely grave.—Reuter.

He saw him dash into the alley immediately after the fusillade.

Japanese marines occupied an area of Hongkew roughly one square mile into which nobody was allowed to enter and all seeking egress were closely questioned.

Japanese armoured cars are patrolling the area. Marines from the flagship Idzumi who numbered one hundred (not a battalion) were posted at the Japanese Embassy and other Japanese buildings.—Reuter.

Reinforcements for the Japanese naval landing party are expected to arrive in Shanghai from Japan aboard the special service ship Muroto to-morrow.

The new units will probably proceed to Hankow where the Japanese naval authorities decided to maintain a permanent landing party in consequence of the murder of Yoshioka, a consular policeman.—Reuter.

AIR CHIEF AND COLLEAGUES GUESTS OF HONOUR

The Governor And Lady Caldecott Present

Squadron Leader W. A. K. Dalzell and the officers of the Royal Air Force Station at Kai Tak gave a most successful At Home yesterday evening in their spacious new Mess which was very tastefully decorated. The party was given for Air Commodore Sydney Smith who is shortly proceeding home on transfer from Singapore (he arrived here yesterday with two Flying boats) and a number of his staff, including Group Captain Peck and Group Captain Wilcock, who had come down from Shanghai.

The band of the Royal Welch Fusiliers played in the gardens.

The party continued till nearly 9 p.m. and it was voted by all a most successful affair. All the services were well represented as well as a fair number of the civilian population.

It was pleasing to see that so many ladies had already returned to the Colony, and next month when the Naval contingent arrive, Hong Kong should look forward to a very gay season.

H.E. The Governor and Lady Caldecott, were among the guests, and appeared to enjoy themselves very much.

Among the guests were the following:—Rear Admiral and Mrs. C. G. Sedgwick; Colonel E. St. G. Kirke; Lieut. Col. A. C. Marsh; Lt. Col. R. M. Rodwell; Mrs. Dalzell; Lieut. Col. J. C. Brewer; Major and Mrs. J. C. Currie; Rev. Jago; Wing Commander and Mrs. A. G. Bishop; Squadron Leader and Mrs. J. N. D. Anderson; Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Sharpe; Capt. W. J. R. Cragg; A.D.C. to H.E. the Governor; Col. Mrs. and the Misses J. H. Morris; Major and Mrs. W. E. B. Dowling; Major and Mrs. H. McI. Morrison; Major and Mrs. E. S. C. Grune; Major and Mrs. "Chips" Davies; Mr. Edgar Davidson; Flight Lieutenant and Mrs. P. H. Smith; Captain D. I. Owen; Major and Mrs. M. H. A. Campbell; Captain J. W. A. Waller.

Altogether there were some 150 people present.

Smart detective work by members of the Yaumatei C.I.D. has resulted in the arrest of a man suspected to have been connected with the sensational daylight robbery which was perpetrated at 8 o'clock on Tuesday morning, when four men, stated to be Northerners, entered No. 229 Nathan Road and robbed the inmates of jewellery and money to the total value of over $1,000.

The man, named Sze Hok Chuen, a Northerner, was arrested on board a vessel on Wednesday evening, prior to sailing for Shanghai. He is stated to be an ex-folk of the victim. The arrested man will probably be charged before the Kowloon Magistrate this morning.

When arrested Sze was stated to be in possession of a wristlet watch which was part of the stolen property which has been distributed among members of a gang.

The police were first notified of the robbery after Yu Hak Sing, 26, wife of a Shing Mun contractor had communicated with her husband regarding the theft. He in turn notified the police.

The robbers effected an entry by means of a ruse and no sooner had they gained access to the floor they threatened the woman with knives. They decamped an hour later, it was reported, with a haul including a platinum and diamond ring and a pair of gold and diamond drops, each valued at $600; a gold wrist watch, valued at $50; another wrist watch valued at $30; a gold watch, valued at $40; a gold cash, $25 in Hong Kong currency and $20 in silver coins.

A report in this connection appeared in a Tokyo newspaper a few days ago, but later the spokesman of the Japanese Foreign Office described all the so-called demands as imagination.

Nothing to confirm this report has been received from Japanese sources or from the Chinese Ambassador in Tokyo.

Chinese circles in Nanking opine, however, that if such demands are actually presented the Chinese Government will in accordance with the League Covenant, firmly adhere to the principle of territorial integrity and sovereign rights and reject any Japanese demands on the ground that they violate that principle.—Reuter

Investigations carried out by the police in connection with an armed robbery which was perpetrated at No. 229 Nathan Road on Tuesday when four Northerners made off with money and jewellery valued at over $1,000 has led to the arrest of three men for possession of an automatic revolver.

The three men are Kwa Cheung, Ching, 27, stated to be an ex-soldier, Kwok Kai Fat, 34, earth cooler, and Lee Kang Yin, 31, earth cooler.

It is learned from a reliable source that the men were not in any way connected with the robbery, but admitted possession of the revolver when questioned by the police.

The revolver was found wrapped in a newspaper parcel by a police party led by Detective Sergeant Headridge, of the Yaumatei C.I.D. when a raid was carried out among workmen's huts on the hillside of Kowloon Tong.

The arrests were effected on Tuesday night at 5.45 p.m.

H.K. RIFLE ASSOCIATION

Spoon and Practice Shoot

The second Spoon and Practice Shoot held by the Hong Kong Rifle Association took place on the Army Ranges at Kowloon City yesterday afternoon in brilliant sunshine. So glaring was the light indeed that many found it too much for them as it rendered the aiming-mark extremely difficult to see, and as the results below adequately demonstrate, many of the "experts" failed to show anything like their usual form.

Although this shoot, as already stated, is only the second of the season, a pleasing feature as was the case last week, was the comparatively large number of members who have now taken up rifle-shooting for the first time, and in view of the decision of the Council that the "Overseas Match," shot for under N.R.A. auspices and conditions shall take place as far as this Colony is concerned by November 30, it seems likely that several of the members who represent Hong Kong, will be those who did not shoot at all in the preceding season. In view of the fact that this is the only match shot for annually, which is competed for by Colonies and Dependencies throughout the Empire, it should be the aim of every keen shot to take part in this competition and it is hoped that the very creditable score which was made in last year's match, will be greatly increased in the near future.

Leading scores made yesterday afternoon are as follows:—

A report in this connection appeared in a Tokyo newspaper a few days ago, but later the spokesman of the Japanese Foreign Office described all the so-called demands as imagination.

Nothing to confirm this report has been received from Japanese sources or from the Chinese Ambassador in Tokyo.

Chinese circles in Nanking opine, however, that if such demands are actually presented the Chinese Government will in accordance with the League Covenant, firmly adhere to the principle of territorial integrity and sovereign rights and reject any Japanese demands on the ground that they violate that principle.—Reuter

Investigations carried out by the police in connection with an armed robbery which was perpetrated at No. 229 Nathan Road on Tuesday when four Northerners made off with money and jewellery valued at over $1,000 has led to the arrest of three men for possession of an automatic revolver.

The three men are Kwa Cheung, Ching, 27, stated to be an ex-soldier, Kwok Kai Fat, 34, earth cooler, and Lee Kang Yin, 31, earth cooler.

It is learned from a reliable source that the men were not in any way connected with the robbery, but admitted possession of the revolver when questioned by the police.

The revolver was found wrapped in a newspaper parcel by a police party led by Detective Sergeant Headridge, of the Yaumatei C.I.D. when a raid was carried out among workmen's huts on the hillside of Kowloon Tong.

The arrests were effected on Tuesday night at 5.45 p.m.

FISHING JUNK RAIDED

Successful Haul By Armed Gang

Men armed with a revolver, gun, and knives are stated to have made away with a haul of money and equipment valued at nearly $80 from a fishing junk which was robbed whilst sailing in British waters on September 19, according to information received by the Water Police.

The desperadoes, five in number came upon the junk whilst it was anchored off Tin Ha Wan under cover of dark, and after threatening the crew decamped with money, fishing nets and clothing.

According to a report made by Wai Ched, master of junk No. 2256K late last night, he proceeded from Shau Ki Wan on September 19 found for Tin Ha Wan at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. He reached his rendezvous two hours later and with two other members of his crew he was engaged in fishing.

Later in the evening he and his men were roused from sleep by a gang of four men, one armed with a revolver, another with a gun, and others with knives who threatened him and his crew with bodily harm.

Wai Ched states that he offered $2 in money to pacify the robbers which they flatly refused. They then ransacked the junk and made off with $33 in cash, a number of fishing nets valued at over $23 and a quantity of clothing. Another man remained on board the marauding boat which had approached Wai's junk on the port side.

The Water Police C.I.D. are investigating the affair.

Ching, 27, stated to be an ex-soldier, Kwok Kai Fat, 34, earth cooler, and Lee Kang Yin, 31, earth cooler.

It is learned from a reliable source that the men were not in any way connected with the robbery, but admitted possession of the revolver when questioned by the police.

The revolver was found wrapped in a newspaper parcel by a police party led by Detective Sergeant Headridge, of the Yaumatei C.I.D. when a raid was carried out among workmen's huts on the hillside of Kowloon Tong.

MADRID ALMOST ENCIRCLED BY INSURGENTS

Battle For Possession To Begin

GOVERNMENT FORCES HAMPERED

Stubborn Defence At Alcazar

London, September 23. The battle for possession of Madrid, which is now almost encircled by insurgent forces is expected to begin within the next twenty-four hours.

In the north, the insurgent and Government forces are entrenched on either side of the Guadarrama range, but at certain points the insurgents have reached the Madrid side, threatening the general headquarters of the Government forces. In the north-east, the road to Saragosa is dominated by insurgent forces holding Sigüenza.

In the south, the Government forces hold Toledo, but they are hampered owing to the adamant defenders at Alcazar who, though expelled from the stables and granaries of the citadel, have now taken refuge in the cellars in the hope that the relief promised them in insurgent plane messages will arrive within forty-eight hours. The south-east remains the only free route for Government supplies and reinforcements through Albacete to Valencia.

INSURGENT FRONT

In the south-west, the insurgent front stretches from Torrijos, forty-five miles from Madrid, to Quismondo, five miles east of Maqueda, and forty-one miles from the capital, where Government forces are making a stand following their defeat at Maqueda.

This is a likely quarter for the main thrust against the capital as the excellent wide motor road runs to Madrid over open country. To the west, the insurgent north-west and south-west forces effected a junction, but the mountainous country is only thinly held.

Thus the insurgents almost surround their objective the only gap being from Toledo to a point just east of Aranjuez, which is a railway junction vital to the Government forces and the sole avenue of retreat.

The powerful southern army, well-equipped with planes, is concentrating in the Toledo area for the advance. According to insurgent headquarters, they will be commanded by General Varela, who was hitherto leading the attack in the Malaga district.

NATIONALIST DENIAL

Hendaye, Sept. 23. The Nationalist radio station at Burgos denies the report that the Alcazar in Toledo is now totally destroyed. On the contrary, it is stated, the officers and cadets there are still holding out, and will be able to hold out till the troops of General Franco come to their aid.

PIERCE ATTACK

Madrid, Sept. 23. Reports from the Guadarrama front state that the insurgents were heavily defeated in the action near Losoya reservoir, the main source of Madrid's water supply. Government forces have already picked up over four hundred dead. The insurgents had endeavoured to break through the front northwest of Madrid between Gascones and Navarredone.

The attack which was unprecedentedly fierce lasted all day long and continued at night time. The insurgents got near enough to the Government trenches to use hand grenades, but with the fall of darkness withdrew, demoralised by heavy losses, and abandoning much war material. Government troops pursued the retreating forces for two miles.

LAST ALCAZAR TOWER COLLAPSES

Madrid, Sept. 23. The last remaining tower of the Alcazar in Toledo collapsed on Tuesday when artillery of the Government forces continued to fire at the fortress. The artillery bombardment was, however, not followed by an infantry attack, since a considerable part of the besieging troops were transferred to the Maqueda front, to check the Nationalist advance on Madrid.

London, Sept. 23.—Mrs. Amy Mollison has asked to be permitted to fly the plane Miss Liverpool I. in the Portsmouth-Johannesburg air race next Tuesday. The machine is the one which Campbell Black was piloting when he was killed on Saturday and was to have been flown by him in the race. No decision is being taken until the relatives of Campbell Black have been consulted as to whether they would desire the machine to compete.—British Wireless.

NEUTRALITY IN SPAIN

Discussion At Geneva

London, Sept. 23. The prospects of the International Committee for application of agreement regarding non-intervention in Spain were the subject of discussion between the British and French Foreign Ministers who dined together at Geneva last night.

Earlier in the day Mr. Anthony Eden had a further interview with the Portuguese representative, Senhor Monteiro, and it is understood further progress was made on the question of Portuguese participation.

The "Times" says that Senhor Monteiro was later in communication with his Government.—British Wireless.

LONDON MEETING

London, Sept. 23. The sub-committee appointed by the International Committee on non-intervention in Spain was in session for about three hours in London yesterday. A considerable amount of work is being done by the Governments to assist the work of the Committee. The next meeting of the sub-committee has been called for Monday.

CHILDREN AS HOSTAGES

Outrage By Spanish Reds

St. Jean De Luz, Sept. 22. A telegram from the Mayor of Saragosa, to the effect that 140 school children, who had been spending a holiday of four weeks in a camp near Orto, were abducted by the Reds to be held as hostages, was received here with the utmost indignation. Immediately after the capture of Orto by the Nationalists the Mayor proceeded there to bring the children home, who had been unable to communicate with the parents since beginning of the Civil War. He came to find them gone, and eye witnesses told him, how on their flight the Reds had come to the dormitory at 2 o'clock in the morning, took the frightened children to motor lorries and made off with them.

GERMAN ARMY MANOEUVRES

Secrecy Observed

Berlin, Sept. 22. The German Army manoeuvres in West Germany are proceeding apace under great secrecy, with mechanised troops and aeroplanes predominating in the exercises. The Generals commanding the opposing forces will not know beforehand which side wins the battle, as is usual in the case of Army manoeuvres, but a decision will be given at the end of the exercises.

Correspondents of newspapers have not been given details of troop movements, in order that one side cannot read in the papers what its opponent is doing.

MONEY MARKET UNCERTAINTY

Franc Affected By Rumours

EMBARGO ON GOLD EXPORTS

London, Sept. 23. Rumours of impending changes in the French Cabinet, associated with the hasty return to Paris of the arch deviationist, M. Paul Reynaud, from America, resulted in further weakening of gold currencies in terms of sterling, spot franc falling to 77.00, whereupon British control pegged back the rate to 76.98.

The underlying weakness, however, was again reflected in forward quotations, particularly three months, which dropped to 7.00 before rallying to 6.87 discount. In the latter connection some quarters opine that the Swiss National Bank which had hitherto based its currency on the French franc, is now suffering from an attack of nerves and effecting forward sales of French currency against corresponding forward purchases of United States dollars which may account for the recent increase of premium for forward dollars in terms of sterling.

Despite the fact that in the past few days the Bank of France is estimated to have lost a further £4,500,000 worth of gold, foreign exchange circles doubt the rumours that France contemplates an overnight embargo on gold exports, but it is freely admitted that some such action might soon be a virtual necessity.

CHANGED ATTITUDE OF LITVINOFF

French Paper Guesses Possible Reason

Paris, Sept. 22. The independent attitude taken up by Foreign Commissary Litvinoff in Geneva has been an unpleasant surprise to political circles here, since it had been taken for granted that Litvinoff would follow his normal course and support the French viewpoint.

The foreign editor of the "Echo de Paris," Ferninax, expresses the view that the changed attitude of Litvinoff may be due to the fact that the general staff conversations between France and the Soviet Union, were not yet held immediately after the conclusion of the Franco-Soviet Pact. In consequence of this, Ferninax states, the military pacts between the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia and Rumania are "hanging in the fire," since neither of these countries wish to enter binding obligations unless France does so too.

ANOTHER VIEW

Warsaw, Sept. 23. The Geneva correspondent of the semi-official agency Iskra says that Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Foreign Commissary played a considerable part in bringing the Credentials Committee to recommend referring the question of admitting the Abyssinian Delegation to the League Session to the International Court at The Hague. The aim of Litvinoff, the agency continues, was undoubtedly to make the Five-Power conference impossible or difficult. Moscow was well aware that the possibility of Soviet Russia being invited to participate in the conference was very slight, and success of the conference would mean weakening Russia's position in France.

URUGUAY BREAKS WITH SPAIN

Montevideo, Sept. 22.

Uruguay has broken off diplomatic relations with Spain and has withdrawn its Legation from Madrid. This action is alleged to have followed the execution in Madrid of three sisters of the Uruguayan Vice-Consul there.

INCOME TAX ON FOREIGNERS

France And America Oppose

NOTES SENT TO NANKING

Nanking, Sept. 23. Both the French and American Governments rejected the request of the Chinese Foreign Office that their nationals in China be ordered to pay income tax to the Chinese Government. In a note to the Foreign Office, the United States Embassy declared that Chinese income tax law was inapplicable to Americans in China, and also argued that the present regulations are impracticable for the Chinese Government without adequate machinery to enforce the regulations universally.

The French note cites the provision of the Sino-French Treaty, showing such regulations cannot be applied to French nationals in China. The Chinese Foreign Office is now studying the French and American notes.

KING EDWARD'S HOLIDAY

Notable Economies At Balmoral

London, Sept. 23. The King, who is on holiday at Balmoral, is making notable economies in the Castle. His Majesty refused the bedroom formerly used by King George. Saying that the best bedrooms must be reserved for guests, he chose a small room adjoining the pantry previously occupied by one of the upper servants.

Little more than half the staff taken by the late Majesties accompanied King Edward to Balmoral. All carriages and Royal greys have been left behind and only a few ponies for the hills are now at Balmoral stables.

Arriving at Balmoral, the King, whose enthusiasm for bagpipes is well-known, summoned the Royal band of six pipers which always plays at dinner, superintended the rehearsal and instructed them what tunes they were to play.

MORNING SURPRISE IN LONDON

Big Ben Stops!

London, Sept. 23. Londoners hurrying to offices this morning at about 9.10 were surprised when on looking at Big Ben they saw the time was only 8.43, causing many to think their timepieces were out of order, but the fact was that Big Ben had stopped.

Later it was found that a step-ladder used to whitewash the interior of the tower had fallen on a spindle which turns the hands of the clock, preventing them from moving.

The Clerk of Works immediately climbed the tower accompanied by the makers to investigate the stoppage which was shortly put right.

SULTAN'S ORDER IN MOROCCO

Paris, Sept. 22. All goods traffic between French and Spanish Morocco has been suspended until further notice, by order of the Sultan of Morocco. Although passenger traffic remains unhampered, it is feared that this order will have a serious effect on the International Tangiers zone.

COMMANDER RETALIATES

As an answer to the suspension of the goods traffic between the French and Spanish Morocco zone by the Sultan at the instigation of the French Government, the Commander-in-Chief of Spanish Morocco, General Argos, has ordered the complete closing of the Franco-Spanish-Morocco frontier, according to a report by the special correspondent of the "Jour".

MOUNTAIN BATTLE DESCRIBED

INSURGENT CAPTURE OF ELRICO PASS

Defenders Exterminated With Cold Steel

Paris, September 23. The insurgents' advance on Sierra Degredos which resulted in the capture of Elrico Pass, opening up the road to Avila, is described in a despatch from Talavera del Argina.

It adds that amidst the eternal snows of the Sierra, the Government forces installed machine gun nests and even hauled up artillery to the summits of the two peaks dominating the pass and an old Roman road.

Three squadrons of insurgent cavalry attacked the government forces on the mountain flank, exterminating the defenders with cold steel. The defenders on the heights thereupon retired.

It is stated that the government forces shot nearly five hundred people, one-tenth of the population of the village of Arenas de San Pedro, including some fifteen young girls.

actual decision to withdraw was taken in Rome to demonstrate Signor Benito Mussolini's displeasure at the Assembly's attitude concerning Ethiopia.

Senator.

SENATOR RECALLED
Geneva, Sept. 22. Senator de Micheli, Italian delegate to the International Radio conference which is at present meeting here, received instructions from Rome on Tuesday, to leave the conference, whereupon he informed the President that he would be unable to attend the deliberations henceforth.

Considerable significance is attached here to the Italian Government's decision to forbid a further attendance of the Italian delegation at this conference, which was convoked by the League of Nations. It is believed that this may foreshadow important events.—Transocean News Service.

QUESTION EXAMINED

Geneva, Sept. 22. The Credentials Committee of the League of Nations, after a discussion that lasted two hours, decided to recommend that the League of Nations refer the question of Abyssinia's participation to the International Court at The Hague. The Drafting Committee has been instructed to prepare a report and examine the various legal questions pertaining to the problem, such as whether it is necessary for the Assembly to vote unanimously, or whether a simple majority will do, in order to refer the question to The Hague. The question, whether the Abyssinian Delegation will be allowed to attend the session until the International Court at The Hague has reached a verdict, has not yet been decided.

RULES NOT CLEAR

Geneva messages report that the Credentials Committee has decided to refer to the Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague the question of the right of Ethiopian Delegation to sit in League Assembly. It is not clear whether according to League rules of procedure the Ethiopian Delegation may or may not sit pending the award by the Hague Court.

SPORTSMAN
LEAVINGIntroduced Surf-
Boards To Colony

W. LAWSON BUTT

BY "ADREM"

With the departure for the North to-morrow of W. Lawson (Bill) Butt, the Colony will be losing a colourful figure in the local sporting circles.

"Bill" as he is known to a large circle of friends, is leaving for Shanghai where he will be married to Miss Dorothy Packwood. His brother, W. L. Butt, who is at present in Nanking with Messrs. Texas Oil Co., will, I understand, be present at the wedding. Following the ceremony it is the intention of the young married couple to go to Nanking, where "W.L." will be married a few weeks later.

W. Lawson Butt

The two married couples then plan to leave China for Durban, South Africa, where "Bill" will open a surf-board manufacturing company. Durban is renowned for its fine surf obtainable at its many beaches.

Surf-board riding has been established here due to the efforts of Mr. Lawson Butt, who first introduced this entertaining water sport at Repulse Bay some years ago. A Government ban on devotees of the sport at this beach by limiting them to practise the pastime a quarter of a mile from shore, rather dampened the ardour of a growing band of sportsmen, but within the past season or two, Big Wave Bay has been selected as more suitable because of the big surf running most of the time.

INCREASING NUMBERS

The present season has seen increasing numbers taking to surf-board riding, with the result that a company was established to meet the demand. While Mr. Butt is away, a local representative will be in charge of the office.

When "Bill" first came to the Colony he was connected with the Sports Department of Messrs. Lane, Crawford Ltd., who are now the sole distributors of his locally made surf-boards. Three years ago, Butt joined the staff of Messrs. MacDonald and Gorman, then later established his own company.

During his stay in the Colony, Mr. Butt has been connected with the Victoria Recreation Club in 1932, when he took over a position as honorary coach. His method of training "coming" swimming stars, a number of whom are now performing with credit, called for deserved admiration. The following year (1933-34) saw him connected with the South China American football squad which engaged Linsam University, Canton, in a number of return fixtures. Lately Mr. Butt has been swimming instructor at the Lido, Repulse Bay.

Prior to his arrival here, Mr. Butt was appointed coach at the Manila Central High School, where he trained the track and field team, as well as the basketball squad.

I understand that "Bill" will be taking six surf-boards with him to Durban, which are packed in a specially conceived mahogany case. The best wishes of his friends will, I feel sure, be extended to Bill in his two new ventures.

KING FLUNG
INTO SEA

-And Saved-

King Edward was rescued from the sea recently after a skiff which he was rowing capsized.

The mishap occurred at a Greek resort.

The King had put off in the skiff when a motor-boat crashed past.

The wash set up overturned the skiff and the King was flung into the water.

The people in the motor-boat saw the mishap, turned and saved the King, who was not hurt.

Salt Lake City, Sept. 22.

The American A. B. Jenkins, who is attempting to break Cobb's 24-hour and Captain Eyeston's 48-hour records, broke the 5,000 kilometre record with an average speed of 153.95 miles an hour compared with Cobb's 150.21 miles an hour.

A. B. Jenkins, driving a Mormon Meteor in an attempt on the world's 24 and 48-hour records, broke the 24-hour record at an unofficial average speed of 153.75 miles an hour, compared with 150.1629 miles an hour set by John Cobb (England) on September 12. During the run Jenkins also broke the world's 5,000-kilometre record at an average speed of 152.95 miles an hour, compared with Cobb's 150.21 miles an hour.

His body was discovered on the line shortly after a London train had passed the spot.

Mr. Armitage, who was on the committee of the Leyton Football Club, played as an amateur for Charlton and Leyton. He appeared at centre-half.

HONG KONG LADIES' HOCKEY ASSOCIATION

Report On Last Year's Activities

The annual report of the Hong Kong Ladies' Hockey Association states that during the year under review, a Junior League was formed, which was the means of stimulating interest in Ladies' hockey. Mr. A. O. Brown very kindly donated a cup to be played for annually on the same lines as the competition for the Caer Clark Cup. Five teams entered this League, and the Hong Kong Ladies were successful in winning the Cup.

The Central British Association won the Caer Clark Cup, thus breaking the long sequence of wins by the Hong Kong Ladies, who won the Southern Cup after a replay against the "Y" Ladies.

The "Y" Ladies retained the Pearce Cup, and the Central British School won the cup presented by Miss H. M. Knill in the Seven-a-Side Tournaments.

Hong Kong sent up a team to Shanghai during Chinese New Year, and won the White Shield for the second time, defeating the Shanghai side by 1-0. Two other matches were played—against the American School and the Res. of Shanghai—and the Colony was victorious on each occasion.

Owing to various reasons the Champions v. Res. match in the Caer Clark Cup League was cancelled. The Interport team, however, played the Champions, and a Res. team played the Junior Champions, Mrs. Pearce presenting the cups to the winners at the conclusion.

Fund for Interport expenses were raised by various means, including a Bridge and Mah Jongg Drive, a Raffle for a case of beer, and a Stop Watch Competition. In addition, each Club made a contribution, appearing as "Special Donations" in the Statement of Accounts.

The Committee has in mind further schemes for raising funds for the Interport contest next year, should Shanghai decide to send down a team.

The statement of accounts shows that the Association has $570.91 in the bank and $52.90 in hand and that the cost of passages and expenses for the Interport visit to Shanghai in January was $1,168.97.

The third annual meeting of the Association will be held at Gloucester Building on Friday, October 16, at 5.15 p.m.

WYATT ON HIS CHOICE

'I Am Glad To Have A Place In The Team'

His full agreement with every step taken by the M.C.C. in building up the English team for Australia was expressed recently by Mr. R. E. S. Wyatt, the Warwickshire captain, who has been chosen to complete our Ashes party.

Mr. Wyatt told the "News of the World" that when the captaincy of the team was settled and announced he was neither surprised nor resentful. He had, he said, had a good innings, and his recent form justified the selection committee in the action they had taken.

In the Midlands it was expected that he would be in the earlier selections, but Mr. Wyatt had no comment to make. The invitation at last extended to him was accepted promptly. The fact that it came at the last minute leaves him without the slightest resentment.

"It is not my place to criticise," Mr. Wyatt said yesterday, "nor have I the slightest desire to do that. I am glad, as any English cricketer would be, to have a place in the team, and we must just leave it at that."

FOOTBALLER SENT TO PRISON

Belgrade, Sept. 22. The well-known football player, Glaser, who often played goalkeeper for teams representing Yugoslavia at international contests, was sentenced to two years imprisonment for manslaughter. He had, as a practical joke, pushed a club comrade into the water. The latter, who could not swim, drowned.

JOE LOUIS WINS AGAIN

Ettore Knocked Out In Fifth Round

Philadelphia, Sept. 22. Ettore, the Italian-American heavyweight, was no match for Joe Louis, and was knocked out in the fifth round of a 15-round feature here to-night.

Early in the first round the Italian was floored for a two count, and again in the fourth he went down for nine from a hard left.

Two terrific left hooks, that would have bowled over an ox, landed on Ettore's chin in the fifth round, and he was unable to rise.

Louis took four of the five rounds and the third was even.

Jim Braddock, the champion, and Jack Dempsey, ex-champion, watched the engagement.

MOTOR CYCLE RACE

Munich, Sept. 22.

The six days motorcycle speed, endurance and reliability test for the International trophy, which began at Freudenstadt in the Black Forest last Thursday was concluded at Füssen in the Bavarian Alps on Tuesday and resulted in a brilliant success for the British national team, composed of Brittain on a Norton, Doley on an J.J.S. and Waycott on a Velocette, a team which finished without one penalty.

The German team, which was second, and always close behind the British team, was penalised 17 points owing to a motor defect of a machine ridden by Henne, who with Kraus and Stelzer formed the team. The third team was the French, followed by the Italian and Czechish teams.

Wiseless fans, che curtains, brilliant yet no. garing lights; a rustic bookcase at one end topped with a vase lamp which sheds a mellow glow; spacious windows, so that no matter where you are located in the railcar you have a clear, uninterrupted view. And such a charming little cocktail bar with five swivel chairs and two large lounges where four in each would be comfortable personified. And all this decidedly attractive interior decorative work has been executed to the design by Mrs. R. D. Walker, the talented wife of the General Manager of the Railway.

SPEED!

On the trial run yesterday the "Taipo Belle" did 53 miles per hour going up Gill's Cutting, and just over 60 miles per hour on a half-mile straight run.

Mr. Walker assured me there was practically no vibration, and the factor of noise was so minimised that he was able to talk in normal tones from the far end of the parlour to his colleague at the other end.

It is the intention of the Railway to attach this luxury railcar to an ordinary train, but when special parties are arranged, then it will do any trips desired as a single unit.

ECONOMICAL

Supposing you have a party of 24 and you want to take a run to Shum Chun. You can hire this luxury railcar at $3 per head return. Or if Canton should be your selection then, taking the party at 24, the cost would be $12 return. That works out at a mile a minute for about a penny a mile.

MANY ATTRACTIVE FEATURES
The car has been built in steel plate and streamlined. The steel plate comes down to within 12 inches of the track, thereby giving a very low centre of gravity.

Interior view of luxury rail coach taken from the parlor looking towards the cockpit bar.

The car has been designed to proceed under its own power driven by a 150 H.P. Hall Scott petrol engine which at 700 revolutions per minute, gives a speed of 60.5 miles per hour, or the car may be attached to any train as an ordinary or slip coach. The engine and driving bogie has been separated from the main frame by means of hardened rubber blocks. The ceiling, which is constructed of hardened compressed wood, supplied by the Swedish Trading Co., is insulated from the roof with asbestos mill board and a 6-inch air space.

TWO COMPARTMENTS

The body of the car has been divided into two compartments; the parlor and bar lounge. The parlor has been tastefully decorated and fitted with 14 lounge chairs, reading lamp and table. The floor is laid with Decolite supplied by Messrs. Dowell & Co. and covered with blue carpet, with window curtain to match.

The bar lounge is fitted with two settees with five revolving seats at the cocktail bar. The floor is covered with a blue checked carpet, with window curtains to match. The carpet and window curtains were supplied by Lane & Crawford. The bar is fitted with ample cupboard space and glass washing facilities, and drinks are kept cool in a Ward refrigerator supplied by the Dairy Farm and Ice Storage Co.

The whole of the fittings throughout the coach are done in chromium plate.

The engine compartment is separated from the bar lounge by a double bulk head, thus ensuring the complete damping of engine noise from the remainder of the car.

PUBLIC INSPECTION

This luxury railcar will be open for public inspection on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Kowloon station.

JAPANESE ECONOMIC INFLUENCE

In Nanning, Kwangsi capital, the paper states, there were five Japanese grocery merchants in 1921, while in Wuchow, even before 1919, there were nine Japanese business residents, in addition to a Japanese employee in the Customs Administration. A Japanese company was formed in Wuchow in 1921 to effect sales of coal from the Fushan collieries and also tobacco products.

"But now, thanks to the anti-Japanese movement," the paper declares, "there are no more Japanese businessmen in Kwangsi province."

In Canton, between the years 1919 and 1925, the paper continues, there were about 500 Japanese residents engaged in business. Today there are no more than 50.

In 1926-27 there were many Japanese merchants in Canton engaged in the coal and cotton business. Those Japanese now remaining in Canton are consular officials and clerks in the Japanese banks, shipping offices, etc. Hence, it is concluded, Japanese economic influence in Canton has fallen to zero.

In Swatow there was a Japanese population of about 300 in 1921. To-day the Japanese colony numbers 30. In Hong Kong there were 3,500 Japanese in 1919-20, but now only 1,200.

"In French Indo-China," the paper proceeds, "the authorities have increased the duty on Japanese cotton fabrics by between 20 and 200 per cent since Japan ceased buying Saigon rice. At the same time, Japan ceased buying salt from Indo-China. As a consequence, the number of Japanese in Saigon is less than 10, whereas there used to be about 300."

"Japanese economic influence in South China and French Indo-China has been reduced year by year. Now we are defending our last lines. Lately, Japanese military instructors have been withdrawn from Kwangsi and the Japanese who remain in that province are in a perilous position. We have warships in Canton and Wuchow, but they are far from sufficient for protecting our residents."

RAILWAY LINK WITH KOWLOON

"On the other hand," the paper concludes, "the political and economic influence of other powers in South China has grown much stronger. The Canton-Hankow Railway is to be linked with the Kowloon-Canton Railway. Thereby Britain has conquered a special sphere of influence. As for France, she is now planning to build a railroad from Chingchow on the Kwangtung-Annam border to Hankow by way of Pakhoi, Wuchow, Kweiling and Changsha. When this project is completed French influence will be able to penetrate far into China, for the Peking-Hankow Railway is already dominated by French Capital."

a disease to be found in the whole of South China. Some 38 out of every 250 cases were imported into the Colony, and the total mortality rate during the year was approximately 20 per cent.

A great hindrance to the work of the authorities in their efforts against the disease, was the fact that a number of cases refused treatment until too late.

It was emphatically denied that the source of the Colony's water supply was the cause of typhoid. If this were the case, said our informant, the whole population would be down with it.

"UNDERSTANDABLE"

When it was taken into consideration that the community of the Colony was "pretty large" and that a great number lived in conditions that were not ideal, "to say the very least," the number of cases was negligible and quite understandable.

CARRIERS

There were a number of carriers—people who had had typhoid, and the ideal state of affairs, which was utterly impossible, was to segregate these people from any source of food supply, until medically affirmed as non-carriers.

Another method to stop typhoid would be to forbid anyone in the catchment areas supplying water to the reservoirs. This was impossible locally, for if such was the case, half the areas for "milk" would be closed to the public.

In England and elsewhere this

cases under supervision. Of the new cases, 118 had originated from members of the public. Eighty-eight were of poverty alone, and 33 of poverty and disease.

It was further disclosed that in 104 of the cases the only accommodation was a bed-space, in 95 of the cases the Society had supplied milk or other food, whilst medical treatment had been given in 27 cases.

VISITS PAID

During the month, 605 visits had been paid by the Society's inspectors to homes, and no fewer than 3,258 persons had called at the Society's offices.

The average income per head per month of the cases dealt with during August was $1.71, compared with $1.59 in July.

The financial statement showed that there was an excess of expenditure over income during August of $893.81, and it was stated that there was likely to be a small deficit at the end of the financial year.

It was stated that the scale of relief during the coming year would most likely have to be increased due to the appalling poverty prevalent in the Colony.

The Committee devoted lengthy consideration to the case of two brothers, the younger of whom is blind, deaf and dumb, who had been begging in the streets. It was explained that the case came under the Society's notice as the result of a member of the public writing to the "South China Morning Post" and forwarding to that journal a sum of $15, with the promise of further assistance if necessary.

CASE INCURABLE

The Hon. Director (Mr. F. H. Losby) informed the meeting that the case was brought to the notice of the police, who had the boys taken before Mr. Schofield at the Juvenile Court. Both were then sent to the Remand Home for enquiries to be made. The elder boy was perfectly healthy, but was very troublesome and of a depraved character, whilst the younger, who was nine years of age, had been medically reported on as being quite incurable. They came to the Colony about four months ago, and they had a mother who was apparently in the Colony, but who could not be traced.

At the Remand Home, the boys were placed under special supervision, where it was discovered that the elder of the two was in the habit of constantly bullying his younger brother and ill-treating him. The case again went before Mr. Schofield, who gave the elder boy the option of going out of the Colony or of being handed over to the police with a view to deportation. The boy chose to go to the country. There was evidence that the boys' mother had allowed her elder son to be exploited either by the vice ring or by mendicants.

Mr. Losby stated that the Society either had to provide for the younger boy or to throw him back on to the street. If he were sent to Canton, he would again be subject to bullying by his brother.

HOSPITAL CARE

The view was expressed at the meeting that the Society should assume responsibility for the younger boy, despite the fact that he had only been in the Colony a few months and was not for this reason the type of case in which the Society usually interested itself.

It was eventually decided that arrangements be made with the St. John Ambulance for the lad to be placed in the Cheung Chau Hospital for a month, and that, if possible, he be maintained at that institution by the Society for a period of two years, when the case would come up for reconsideration.

A letter was read from the Hon. Inspector General of Police on the subject of juvenile beggars, in reply to one from the Society on the same subject. The letter outlined measures taken by the police in dealing with such cases, especially where children were exploited, and a request was made that the Society's inspectors inform the police of any such cases which they might encounter in their ordinary work.

law was strictly adhered to, and only those in possession of permits were allowed near catchment areas.

An effort in this direction is in force locally during the fresh water fishing season, when permits have to be obtained by those desiring to fish in the reservoirs of the Colony.
